2020 was different. I realize that is the understatement of our generation, but it sure has changed some things. For those who care about youth and children, we had to find completely different ways of reaching and connecting with those in our care. We became zoom experts, phone call masters, and delivery service personal. We have heard stories of many new and unique ideas to minister during this season of unknown and change. What hasn't changed is the need to care for this growing generation. If you are trying to figure out how to creatively reach new young people for Christ, then you are not alone. We would love to connect with you to hear your struggles, celebrate your wins, and help chart a path forward in ministry together. Ministry should never be alone, and our ministry to students should be no different. So, join a lunchtime chat, checkout one of the resources, or simply just reach out. We want to partner with you as we write the pages of God's story in our region in 2021.
